March, approaching, finds the world in an appropriately bellicose mood. Germany is building "military centers" and air fields, just off the main highways, convenient to them. Barbed wire fences protect new structures, trees are employed to screen them. To investigate them secretly means to have your head chopped off.

Italy has sent six ships, including two Atlantic liners, loaded with fighting men to Ethiopia. An Englishman, an engineer investigating the domains of the Ethiopian king says they are extraordinarily rich in gold and other minerals. Ethiopia may turn out to be Mussolini's Manchukuo, well worth gathering in.

The Ethiopian king says his people will fight to the last man, woman and child. That is what the late Russian Czar said about his "last Moujik," but it did not happen.

Nicholas Roosevelt, diplomat and author, warns the United States, to take seriously "Japan's advances in the Far East."

Introduced by his cousin Theodore Roosevelt, second, he reminds this nation that to protect the Philippines for ten years after we give up those islands will be difficult. Japan will not wait so long before moving in and taking islands of such great mineral and other wealth.

Uncle Sam, not prepared even to protect his home territory, should not undertake to defend anything across the Pacific, especially as gentlemen inhabiting the Philippines feel that they can manage themselves, to do need the United States.

Raymond Gram Swing, addressing a Republican meeting, with Mr. Roosevelt, says Germany will never again try to overrun Europe with goose step soldiers. But, "an air force is easy to create, so Germany is well-timed enough to build up an ultra-modern war in a great hurry before anything effective can be done to prevent it."

Germany, intelligent, know that the air commercial fleet they have now, easily adapted for bombing, could be easily as an assassin could shoot down its victims.

There is the unpleasant certainty that France and England would combine to wipe out German cities, but that would be another chapter.

Chancellor Hitler orders every man in Germany, young or old, take physical training, and be ready to fight. The Spartans trained men early, even taught the young to murder working slaves for practice. They did not last long.

Russia celebrates the seven-teenth birthday of her fled army, now nine hundred and sixty thousand men. General Tukachevsky, who would command for Russia, in case of war, tells the world, including Japan, "We are better organized than any other country."

The number of Russia's small machine gun fighting tanks, now multiplied by twenty-four, in the last four years, taking one gun for every soldier and a half times as numerous and huge tanks, carrying guns, are ten times more plentiful than they were four years ago.

Russia has the best, most heavily mechanized army in the world.

Also Russia has the biggest fighting air fleet, in the world, probably, and keeps 500 bombing planes, always at Vladivostok pointed at Tokyo. Russians proudly tell you that their is a "young army," no old fogies at the top, no "dead wood."

All this is interesting to Uncle Sam, who has much to learn, but nothing worth mentioning in the way of modern developments.

KILLER Shot in AMBUSH FLEES WITH CAPTIVES

By Associated Press
McKinney Tex., Feb. 25.—Raymond Hamilton, elusive desperado, who narrowly escaped death in a police ambush near here last night, was reported fleeing west today with three abducted farm boys.

He is believed to have spent part of the night in a farm house three miles west of Celina.

The three captives were said to be officers to J. C. Loftis, Mc-Buster Mays and C. C. Harlow.

Hamilton's companion in Sunday's gangster, still with him today, was not definitely identified but police said they thought he was a West Dallas hoodlum.

Hamilton was reported wounded in the jaw from the barrage laid down by ambushing officers Sunday.

Search through the night for the killer, who fled the Texas prison deathhouse last summer and again, now escaped from another trap in Dallas, was unavailing. He is under death sentence for murder of a prison guard.

This morning officers learned that after abandoning the bullet-riddled car near Weston, Hamilton and his companion had held up a car in Dallas, from which he rode to the farm of Bill Mays, three miles west of Celina, 18 miles northwest of McKinney.

At dawn they left, taking with them Mays, one of the former Harlow and Loftis.

The district attorney's office was advised Hamilton and his companion were armed with two automatic rifles and two pistols.

The automatic rifles were stolen a week ago from the Beaumont National Guard armory.

'Please God, Let Me Die'

Her parents dead from starvation, herself homeless, this nine-year-old girl, in a man's ragged greatcoat, walked 200 miles in search of crumbs of food to keep her frail body alive. When she had last eaten, she did not remember. Life and the "greater glories of Communism" held out nothing for this little unfortunate.

RUSSIAN CHILDREN TELL OF HUNGER

Man-made starvation stalks through the fertile Ukraine section of Soviet Russia, leaving a ghastly trail of death and agony.

The facts contained in the series of articles were obtained by Thomas Walker, American newspaperman, who is a resident in London. The pictures are his own, taken with a smuggled camera.

By THOMAS WALKER
Noted Journalist and Traveler and Student of Russian Affairs

On the outskirts of Kiev I met a little black-eyed girl of nine in a ragged man's great-coat, of whom I asked some questions.

"Where do you live?"
"Nowhere."
"Where are your parents?"
"Dead."
"Where did they die?"
"At the village of Chernigov."
"Why did they die?"
"We had no food."

"Where did you sleep last night?"
"In an empty goods wagon on the other side of the fence."
"When did you eat last?"
"I don't remember."
"Do you want to be a Communist?"

COLE Answers BLAST SAYS CURLEY O.K.'D TRACK

Granting of a dog racing license in Cambridge had the "full knowledge and approval" of Governor Curley, General Charles H. Cole, state racing commission chairman, asserted today.

Replying to an attack made upon him by the Rev. Francis X. Murphy, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Cambridge, the racing commission head said:

"In view of the character of the charges made against me by Father Murphy, I am obliged to make use of the answer which will entirely refute this personal attack."

"On only one of three racing commissions, and as such having only one vote."

The license for dog racing at Cambridge was granted unanimously by the racing commission, and, furthermore, this license was granted with full knowledge and approval of Governor Curley.

Presumably that the Cambridge license may be shifted to the Boston Garden was merely a "strong" remark that the Boston Garden Corporation, seeking the transfer, by agreement.

Reckless Demagoguery

THE gross stupidity and crass demagoguery of the McCarran amendment to the relief appropriation act has caused a nation-wide storm of indignation.

The storm is rising every minute and bodes ill for the self-serving senators who cast their votes in favor of paying men on relief a wage sufficiently excessive to keep them out of private industry.

Nothing but discredibly selfish political motives caused these senators to vote in favor of an organized minority and against reason, against duty, against their country and against their President.

Senator McCarran and Senator Wagner have now joined the Huey Long crowd of destructive demagogues.

But New York and Nevada are not Louisiana and the tactics of the wrecking gang will not be tolerated in enlightened communities.

THE twenty-one Republican senators who thought to put the President in a hole, however right he might be, and however destructive their action might prove to the country's welfare, will not find their party or their own personal interests benefited by such discreditable policies.

This busy crowd-beating lobby of American Federation of Labor is serving badly the cause it professes to represent.

It will do nothing in its present policy but in-

$12,282,000 GRACE BONUS REVEALED

By Associated Press
Washington, Feb. 25.—Bonuses paid to Eugene G. Grace as president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company and Bethlehem Steel Corporation were disclosed today before the Senate munitions committee to have amounted to $12,282,000 from 1917 to 1931, in addition to a salary of $12,000 a year for most of the period.

Just previously he expressed opposition to elimination of all profit in the event of a future war involving the United States.

The Senate testimony was in connection with committee questioning whether Grace would approve having his plant commandeered by the government in time of war and his own salary cut in that of a general, "about $10,000 a year."

"I can't conceive of the government taking over an industrial plant and telling the man at the head to go on and run it," he replied. "That is not government."

He contradicted government assertion of industry would be "inefficient."

Records supplied the committee said his salary climbed to $100,000 in 1931, the last year he was paid, to the officials and for 1932, 1933, 1934, his salary was $118,000 a year, and no bonus.

Profits for the company aggregated approximately $41,000,000 between 1917 and 1931, the amount remaining after federal taxes were paid, it was shown.

His bonuses, year by year, were listed as follows: 1917, $1,941; 1918, the last year he was paid, $282,900; 1919, $799,502; 1920, $388,540; 1921, $231,790; 1922, $658,000; 1923, $572,190; 1924, $709,475; 1925, $852,300; 1926, $727,850; 1927, $831,415; 1928, $1,625,750; 1929, $1,015,000; 1931, $1,046,750.

CURLEY Asks U. S. ON CROSSINGS, VALLEY WORK

By Associated Press
Washington, Feb. 25.—The New England delegation and the governors of Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire discussed today advisability of joint action by the New England legislatures in advocating Merrimack Valley project similar to the Tennessee Valley administration.

Governor Curley of Massachusetts estimated the two projects would cost approximately $100,000,000 and would involve sanitation with trunk line sewers, the length of both rivers, as well as reforestation, flood control and elimination of soil erosion.

The Massachusetts governor said his would suggest that the conference consider the advisability of requesting federal approval of a grade crossing elimination program in New England which has a mosted road cost about $135,000,000.

Governor Curley said that Governor Hoadley of New Hampshire was completing in the Merrimack Valley project, which he expected they would discuss the project with PMA officials.

This project, which will cost $100,000,000, would affect a number of large cities, including Lowell, Haverhill, Newburyport and Amesbury.

The Connecticut Valley development, Curley explained, would affect five of the six New England states.

Curley to Visit Mexico for U. S.

Governor Curley will pay a flying visit to Mexico City as the personal representative of President Roosevelt, before returning from his present business vacation trip.

This report was made on the best authority on Beacon Hill, as it was pointed out the governor had conferred with the President for half an hour on Tuesday night to discuss the visit.

While the governor was in Washington, he was expected to discuss the Mexican capital for 48 hours after a brief stop in Florida and Havana. No official explanation of his mission was being given.

The President has an elaborate program in the southern republic.

The White House has been flooded in recent weeks with demands for American participation in the alleged religious situation.

The governor will try to the Mexican capital, it was reported.

McWENNEY Calls on Mayor

Police Commissioner Eugene M. McWenney paid his first visit to Mayor Minto today, since he took control of the police department.

O. K. Cash for Navy

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—As a further step toward naval preparation, the House naval affairs committee today approved a $10,000,000 work bill for the navy.

If this amount, nearly $15,000,000 would be spent in Hawaii, American outposts in the Pacific.

Pay Bill Rejected
The legislative committee on public service today rejected a bill to increase wages of police and firemen of the Commonwealth by $30 a week by reporting favor to withdrawal.

NOTES SHOW GIRLS DIED FOR LOVE In Plane Leap

LETTERS TO DU BOIS AND HIS WIFE READ AT INQUEST

By Associated Press

Romford, Eng., Feb. 25 (AP)—Elizabeth and Jane Du Bois, who plunged ermines from an airplane to death last week, visualized their suicides as a "pretty straight" corridor to the dead men they loved.

A coroner's jury today returned a joint verdict of "suicide while of unsound mind" after it had heard the contents of two letters which the girls had intended only for their father, Court Du Bois, United States consul-general in Naples, and their mother, the former Margaret Mendl of Boston.

The father, light-tipped and white-knuckled, attended the inquest.

The mother stayed alone in a hotel, all unaware of the complete details of her daughters' plunge from a commercial transport ship in their letters to their father.

John A. C. Forbes and Flight Lieutenant Henry L. Bratty, who were killed in Mesina, Sicily, two days ago when their Royal Air Force flying boat, the "Diamond," crashed into a hillside.

Commend Pilot

One of the notes said that Flying Officer Forbes, engaged to marry his wife, was going to break off to see his father in order to see his father.

The letters were read publicly at the inquest of Franklin C. Gowen, United States consul.

The coroner said he only did his duty in reading the letters, without them it would have been impossible for the jury to arrive at a proper verdict.

"In time to come," he said, "I am sure the father will realize that reading these letters was the only course to be taken in the circumstances."

The jury retired only a few minutes before arriving at the verdict which was recorded in the usual form for suicide cases in England.

The jury expressed sympathy to the parents and also to Pilot P. J. Du Bois, father of the girls, who had hoped that their contents might not be made public.

The father, Gowen said, wished the girls to be buried in England.

JANE DU BOIS

corner explained that this probably was a book they had written.

"Daring, there is no one else on earth who can even hope to have understood," she said.

"Undivided, Happy"

One would like that they had nothing in this letter to hurt. It is not the first time that sentimentalities, that do that.

Think of us as undivided and happy, we would never have been after our lives because we were undivided and happy.

Fight to High COURT

SCHARTON TO PLEAD TO U. S.

Although he is scheduled to be sentenced in Norfolk court tomorrow to death, Abe Faber's fight for life is just beginning.

William R. Scharton, counsel for the Technology graduates convicted with the Milne brothers in the murderous holdup of the Needham Trust Company, today disclosed his campaign plans.

He will file a petition for a review of Faber's case with the clerk of the Supreme Court late today, he said.

Tomorrow he will argue for a further stay in the sentencing of his client.

Should his appeal fail, he plans to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court.

His 'Genius' Plea

Should he be unsuccessful there, too, Scharton said he would appeal to Governor Curley and the Advisory Council, asking them to commute Faber's sentence to life imprisonment.

To support this plea, he said, he is ready to argue that Faber's confession in the Needham case was the work of two innocent men, Clement F. Molloy and Louis DuBois.

ture the true interest of labor, compromise labor in the eyes of the American people who are always willing to support its just demands, but are determined not to support its narrow, selfish and generally damaging policies.

Labor itself should repudiate the acts and objectives of its lobby.

Relief is relief and is apart from recovery. The recovery of jobs by the unemployed depends upon the broad revival of business, which is the only source of permanent employment.

WHATEVER hinders the revival of business—and every one knows that the prevailing wage amendment will have precisely that effect—renders impossible the full restoration of the unemployed to steady and profitable work.

Furthermore, the government's ABILITY to distribute gratuitous relief is limited.

The national credit is already strained. Federal resources are already dangerously depleted. The exhaustion point is even now visible.

The President perceives this and so does every other thoughtful American.

The hybrid majority in the Senate, temporarily created by the common possession on the part of its members of utterly unworthy motives, must quickly reverse its position and join the country in the latter's unanimous support of the President on this issue.

THIS editorial is addressed to the hybrid and harlequin majority in the Senate.

It is addressed to Vice-Senators McCarran, Wagner and Long, chronic demagogues.

It is addressed to you, Senators Adams, Black, Bone, Bulkley, Costigan, Donahay, Lonergan, Maloney, McGill, Murray, Neeley, O'Mahoney, Reynolds, Schwelb, Truman, Van Nuys, Walsh and Wheeler, renegade Democrats.

And to you, Senators Austin, Barbour, Borah, Capper, Carey, Couzens, Cutting, Davis, Dickinson, Frazier, Gibson, Hastings, Johnson, McNary, Norris, Nye, Schall, Steiwer, Townsend, Vandenberg and White, short sighted and ill-advised Republicans.

The intelligent and loyal citizens of the whole country should communicate with their senators and demand that they consider the welfare of the nation and SUPPORT THE PRESIDENT.

The contents of the message was not disclosed, it was reported it might outline a program of federal aid in a national school building program.

At a preliminary meeting of the association's department of superintendents today, President Roosevelt's message was given a warm reception.

WALKER Broke, Faces EXILE

BETTY PAYS TOUR BILLS

By Associated Press
London, Feb. 25.—
Buffeted by New York
creditors and English police regulations, James J.
Walker, former New York
mayor, told a chancery court today that he was so broke his present wife, Miss Betty Compton, had to pay their joint traveling expenses out of her savings as an actress.

The dapper Jimmy was still dapper but he was worried when he was called to answer to two judgments against him for bills allegedly run up by his first wife in New York.

Then he emerged to find that his status as a legal resident of Great Britain was in jeopardy because of his failure to comply with regulations and register with the police in London. Such failure subjected the holder to the possibility of fine, imprisonment, or deportation—exactly the same.

Clings to U. S.

Informed of this last straw in the steadily mounting burden of grief, Jimmy exclaimed:
"I am willing to do anything to give up my citizenship."
Walker told the court that he now made $25,000 a year, but only $10,000 of it for his own, and is now reduced to $500, of which he pays out 40 per cent.

"I can make no use of this time," Walker said, replying to questioning by counsel for summers, Inc., which, with the East 43rd Street Corporation, brought the action.
"I have no means," he added,
"during the time you were mayor of New York," the summers' attorney asked, "you were possessed of considerable wealth."

"No," Walker replied, "I had a salary of $25,000 a year, more than $15,000 of which went to my wife, who caused the trouble."

"Who paid for that?" the attorney asked, referring to the European trip, which Walker said was taken because of his wife's health.

"Mrs. Walker bought the tickets and paid the expenses," the former mayor replied.

Walker explained that part of the Sixth Street Corporation bill representing an account at the Hotel, which he had paid in dispute "with some money owing to this hotel from me."

Walker testified he received 21 pounds (approximately $102) for a breakey article in a Sunday newspaper.

Betty's Big Pay

The money he received from his writings, Walker said, "represent my only earnings of any sort since 1933."

Mr. Justice Loxmore said he would permit the summons to stand over until March 2 to give the creditors to consider their position and whether they would institute bankruptcy proceedings.

As he emerged from court,
Walker found himself in a tangle with British authorities over his legal right to remain in Great Britain. The police had discovered that he had failed to register with them as is required of every alien who stays here more than three months.

Walker said that he had been here most of 1933 and again in 1934 without registering.

"I am going to make inquiries at the Home Office and find out about it," he said. "There has been no subterfuge about me being here. Nobody ever suggested it was necessary to register."

Regarding his admission that the present Mrs. Walker paid for the trip to Spain, Walker explained:

"For a period of 10 or 12 years
she earned $250 to $1000 a week on the stage and screen, working an average of 40 weeks a year."

TRANSFUSIONS Fail, Girl Dies

at Boston Floating Hospital.

The child was stricken with pneumonia. Doctors placed her in to save her life.

"Rumble Seat" for President's Son-in-Law

JOHN BOETTIGER PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT MRS. ANNA ROOSEVELT BOETTIGER

One apparent disadvantage of being son-in-law of a President! Even when your own wife—in this case, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger—rides in the seat of honor to the left of the man at the wheel, or, er, reins of a horse-drawn sleigh, all that's left for you is the old-fashioned equivalent of the rumble seat! John Boettiger, in this Hyde Park, N. Y., outing, looks none too happy. The Roosevelts, as usual, seem much at home and enjoying themselves.

LIFE TERM Bruno May Die by Summer For North End As His Appeal Is Rushed

KILLING

In a sealed verdict, reached late Thursday night, a jury in superior court found Albert J. Bruno guilty of second-degree murder in the shooting of Anabelle Skiles, Brooklyn gunman, more than 12 years ago.

Bruno, within a few minutes after the sealed verdict had been opened, was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge John M.
Gibbs.

The shooting occurred at Hanover and Union streets, North End,
December 14, 1922.

By Universal Service
Trenton, N. J., Feb. 25.—Attorneys for Bruno Hauptmann conferred here on reports that state officials are planning to expedite hearing of the Bronx carpenter's appeal from his conviction for the Lindbergh baby murder.

KAPLAN HEADS Everett Housing

Former Assistant Joseph Kaplan of Everett, was named Everett Housing Administrator for Everett
today.

He has opened offices in City Hall and will start B men out seeking work under the federal plan.
Kaplan, was formerly chairman of the NEA Appliance Committee.

As a special precaution, state troopers were assigned to guard Governor Hoffman and other important officials in the case.
Edward J. Reilly and Lloyd Fisher, chiefs of the defense council, were informed that instead of many months of delay, the Court of Errors and Appeals may put the Hauptmann case ahead of all other business when it convenes.

There is a possibility the carpenter may be electrocuted before summer.

The impending action on the appeal calls for counsel in appeal March 28 before the Court of Errors and Appeals, which will set a date for argument. The defense brief will be filed at that time.

Doesn't Want Mate to Die for Bruno

By International News Service
New York, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Mary Prestup, mother of two children and wife of Stanley Prestup, doesn't want her husband to go to the electric chair in place of Bruno Hauptmann, convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby.

Stanley wrote Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, that he was willing to change places with Hauptmann if the latter would give his family $500.

"Then my children could live otherwise," he wrote.

Governor Hoffman turned down
the offer.

"Stanley was away from his home in Brooklyn last, looking for a job
today."

"It is all a surprise to me that Stanley should write such a letter," said Mrs. Prestup. "But I don't want him to go to the electric chair. We are having a hard time of it but money is not everything."

Mrs. Prestup talked as she business around the kitchen.

"Stanley has been feeling an good lately," she said. "He told me not so long ago he went up on the roof of the Brooklyn bridge—he felt so bad."

"When he got up there he remembered he had let his life insurance lapse, so he didn't jump."

Rogers warned the boy. The warning was the father's death warrant.

RIEL Search REVIVED

4 STATE POLICE IN NEW PROBE

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Worcester, Feb. 25.—
After a lull of a week
four picked state police detectives headed by Captain Michael Barrett today suddenly renewed their probe into the disappearance of Etta Riel of Oxford.

Captain Barrett with State Detectives Edward Sherlock and John Hogan left Boston suddenly this morning to be met at Grafton state police barracks by State Detectives Edward J. Mc-Carthy and Albert Sheehan.

To a Boston Evening American reporter the State officer revealed that the latest action was taken as a result of new information from an unnamed person.

Secret Conference

The decision to send additional police to Worcester and Oxford was reached after a secret conference at the State House on Saturday.

The detail was sent to Grafton
State police barracks where headquarters will be established and where all persons picked up for questioning will be taken.

One of those to be questioned again is Harold Smith, sweetheart of the missing Etta Riel. All members of the missing girl's family will also be questioned as will persons who had knowledge of the girl's affairs previous to her disappearance.

Falsehoods

State police officers, who have questioned many persons, declare that they have discovered glaring falsehoods in some of the statements made to them.

The police officers said today that before the work is ended many state troopers might be thrown into jail for the girl or her body in unoccupied buildings in Oxford and surrounding towns.

The officers are convinced that the girl was murdered and her body carefully hidden.
Others believe that she is alive,
and that reasons for her disappearance.

She has not been seen since the night of November 21, 1933, when she left a note stating that she was going away and would return.

When an investigation was begun
Harold Smith, former Bates College athlete, supplied police by writing to 15 persons who he detected Edward J. McCarthy investing that the detective had in his story.

He said that he drove Etta to Oxford. He denied that he planned to marry her. He said that when he got to Worcester, Etta left the machine in front of the Union station.

FOOD Price Probe DEMANDED

Demand that an immediate investigation into the price of food be started by Ralph W. Roberts, state director of the division of the necessities of life, was made today.

Representatives John Appel of Roxbury and Thomas Doran of Dorchester jointly presented the move.

They pointed out that the working man is paying a maximum cost for food at a minimum wage. Cui-de that in 1931 wheatear for 8 cents a pound was selling for 17 to 19 cents a pound today.

Hogs in 1931 were 12 to 13 cents now 11 to 12 cents. Butter was 20 cents now 36 cents. Eggs were 15 cents now 25 cents.

"We demand that he find out why and tell the public," Representative Aspell said.

AUTO INSURANCE Probe Demanded

Appointment of a special paid commission to investigate the compulsory automobile insurance law which taxes motorists of the state yearly in excess of $200,000, was demanded at a hearing today before the legislative committee on insurance.

Representative Paul McDonald of Chelsea, sponsor of the bill, said he thought $20,000 should be spent in the investigation and that the insurance companies should bear the cost.

Says She Was "Framed"

Alleging that she was drugged, lured to the apartment of "Prince" Mike Romanoff, and there robbed of her clothes, all to "frame" evidence for a divorce suit against her, Mrs. Wilma E. Gould, wife of Edward B. Gould, wealthy Seneca Falls, N. Y., manufacturer, is bringing suit for $500,000 against "in-laws" and detectives.

GOULDS Face $500,000 "IN-LAW" SUIT

New York, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Wilma
E. Gould's $500,000 divorce suit against her husband's brother and sister and two other persons was scheduled for trial today. The case has been on the Supreme Court calendar for four years.

Mrs. Gould alleges embezzlement against the four defendants, former Representative Norman J. Gould,
Anna Gould, Attorney Elwood
Kemp Jr., and Gerard Louis, a detective.

She charges that Harry Gergoun, who pretends to be known as "Prince" Mike Romanoff, placed dope in a cup of coffee that she was drinking in a night club the night of February 10, 1931, and that she was lured to the apartment.

The next thing she knew, she stated, she was roused from sleep by riders pounding on the door of the apartment. Her clothing, she said, had been taken from her.

After the raid, the husband, Edward B. Gould, formerly a wealthy Seneca Falls, N. Y., manufacturer, brought suit for divorce, but the suit was denied in Supreme Court at Ovid, N. Y.

Most of the large dealers selling lions from 11 cents to 12 cents yesterday, but dropped back to 11

SLAVE Ring Probe BY STATE

GIRLS SOLD BY OWN PARENTS

With the utmost secrecy, state police today opened the most far-reaching investigation ever attempted into the disappearance of thousands of young girls.

The finger of suspicion pointed mostly toward a known Chinese white slave ring, which was believed to be operating in the state capital.

Information in their hands revealed an unholy alliance between whites and Chinese. It involved even the parents of some girls, who were sprung from the paws of a vicious system.

2 Chinese Held

Told that the Boston Evening American had learned details of the plan, he replied: "I still have nothing to say." Plans for the investigation were begun under way for weeks, the Boston Evening American learned. They were hastened by the arrest of two Chinese yesterday on charges involving young white girls. Investigators for the state police have already gathered a mass of data on missing girls whose ages range from 12 years up. Shocking revelations have been brought to light, even in the early stages of the inquiry.

Girls to China

Investigators have learned that young girls have been shipped to other cities in the country from here. Isolated cases indicated transportation of some to homes in Fui-fui China. Because of these details, state police are prepared to submit some of the evidence to federal agents, who have jurisdiction over such crime when it involves the crossing of the state line. All reports of missing girls to the various police departments of the state are due for scrutiny before the investigation is initiated. Those at work on the investigation would not be quoted officially, but several forecast one of the biggest scandals of the years.

Science Danger in Skies From Meteors

Fiery Ball Plunged 1300 Feet Into Earth to Form Great Crater in Arizona

By HIRAM PERCY MAXIM

When Egypt was at the height of its glory, civilization stood at the highest status attained up to that time.

Christ was not to come for 3500 years.

Across an unknown ocean to the west, and across an unknown continent beyond, red men gathered and chanted to the Great Spirit, asking forgiveness and water for their parched lands. Suddenly the sky to the north was split by a ball of fire. Behind it trailed streams of blazing vapor.

As the flaming ball crashed, the very earth shuddered. Amid huge clouds of dust and smoke came a terrific roaring, followed by a blast of scorching fire before it. Avalanche of rock crashed down neighboring hillsides.

The Meteor Crater

Whole forests were set on fire. Devastation and death prevailed. Those of the red men who escaped death fled to the north. Their medicine men told them the Great Spirit was displeased. They must not only mend their ways but never again venture near the land which the Great Spirit had smitten.

A daring Italian sailing from Cadix, Spain, crossed the unknown western ocean and found a new continent. Other white men followed the adventures of Columbus, and a day finally came when a group of them, creeping through the sage brush, came upon the great hole made by the fire ball. The great Meteor Crater of Arizona was discovered.

It is 420 feet—nearly a mile—in diameter. Originally it must have been 1000 to 1500 feet deep. Today it is 600 feet deep. A rim around it is 140 feet high. The meteorite which struck this spot must have weighed many millions of tons. When it struck it must have been traveling seventy-five to one hundred miles per second. It plunged through 200 feet of solid rock, scattered scoulders as big as houses and produced millions of tons of fine rock flour. On the morning of June 30, 1908, another great celestial wanderer crashed in from the depths of space, along the railroad. It struck in northeastern Siberia in the waste lands between the Yenisei and Lena rivers, north of the Siberian railroad line.

1500 Deer Killed

It was observed by many persons, mostly by inhabitants living along the railroad. They described it as a "fiery body of unusual brightness" racing across the sky out of the north.

and, falling into the tangle between the rivers." The fall was followed by a great fire, tremendous black clouds and a deafening noise. This noise was heard many hundreds of miles distant. A farmer named Semmes, living 50 miles to the south, said he felt a terrible explosion, which knocked him off his front porch and completely demolished his house.

He said the air became so hot he feared his clothing would burn. A herd of 1500 reindeer was killed and every tree for many miles around was knocked flat upon the ground.

Fortunately, these great meteorites are infrequent visitors. Very small ones, weighing from 25 pounds to a few ounces, fall frequently. During the past 125 years 470 falls have been observed.

MISSIONARIES Slain in China

Sian, Shensi, China, Feb. 25 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports received by the local office of the China Inland Mission today, said two missionaries, the Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Pennington, stationed at Ninghsien in southwest Shensi province, had been kidnapped and murdered. Concern was felt for the safety of two American women missionaries in West Shensi. The Americans, Miss R. V. Thompson of Nevada, and Miss Mary Arberry of Chicago were reported missing.

BISHOP WON'T Act in Everett

For the time, at least, District Attorney Warren L. Bishop will not act on charges of corruption involving an Everett policeman. Councilman Joseph F. Nacker of Everett, chairman of the committee probing charges of graft, had a long conference with Bishop today, after which the prosecutor said: "I could find no evidence of corruption under the present investigation. Until I can get something more substantial, I do not intend to do anything about it."

HITLER Puts Ban On KAISER

MILLION NEW NAZIS SWORN

By International News Service
Munich, Feb. 25.—Germany wondered today whether Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, leading the Nazi party into the 16th year of its existence, plans now to carry out to the letter the famous 25 points of the original Nazi program, seven points of which remain unfulfilled.

What we have done in two years (in power) is only an introduction to what is coming," Hitler proclaimed in a nationwide broadcast yesterday from the Munich Hofbrauhaus, where the party was formed fifteen years ago. While one million new Nazi leaders took a lifetime oath of "unbreakable fidelity and unconditional obedience" to Hitler, the chancellor indicated that there would be no restoration of the monarchy, rejected that Germany must be treated equally before she would discuss arms or security setups, and raised.

"Those who have faith in us must love us; those who do not must hate us."

But he made no definite promise that the 25-point program would be carried out, although he insisted that it remain "unaltered." These points have yet to be applied:

- "No Jew may be a member of the nation."
- "All non-Aryans who entered Germany after August 2, 1914, shall be expelled."
- "All incomes not earned from work shall be abolished."
- "Trusts shall be nationalized."
- "Profits of big enterprises shall be shared."
- "Interest on land shall be abolished."
- "Department store promises shall be communitized to leave at low rates to small traders."

Ban on Ex-Kaiser

Fifteen years ago yesterday Hitler lacked the 25 points on the door of the Hofbrauhaus, Godes-Feder, who drafted the program, is now in disgrace. Hitler's final blow to the hopes of the Hohenzollerns was framed in these words:

"I prophesy that you will never return to the past. That which is past will remain, and that which was will never return. All those who hope for a return of the past must realize it is—that a nameless man must come as I came."

Prince August Wilhelm, the Kaiser's fourth son, was present.

SMEDLEY BUTLER Renews Plot Charges

Philadelphia, Feb. 25 (INR).—Major-General Smedley D. Butler, favorite radio orator, today reiterated his charge that alleged backers of the so-called "Roosevelt" plot in seize control of the government claimed they were in confidence of President Roosevelt.

Butler made his accusation in a renewal of his attack on the constitutional committee on unconstitutional activities, which he contends has suppressed much of the testimony heard during its investigation of the purported conspiracy.

LYDA ROBERTI Under Knife

Los Angeles, Feb. 25 (AP).—Operated on for acute appendicitis, Lyda Roberti, film actress, was reported today resting comfortably in California Lutheran Hospital.

The actress became ill a week ago today. Her condition becoming worse, she was removed to a hospital, where the operation was performed yesterday.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Confronted by growing discontent from both manufacturers and labor, the NRA has set up a special board to study conditions in the textile industry and determine the possibility of code revision.

While NRA has not said so officially, the action was reported reliably to have been taken with the view of forestalling another textile strike, threatened early in the spring if labor's demands for wage concessions and more satisfactory code enforcement are not met.

Meanwhile, led by Governor Curley of Massachusetts, a group of New England manufacturers and state officials gathered here for a conference today with the New England congressional delegation.

Objectives of the meeting included presentation of a petition limit imports of Japanese textiles, to eliminate or lighten the cotton processing tax, to remove sectional wage differentials and to standardize wages throughout the industry.

Among newspapermen to attend are: Dreyfus, publisher of the Boston Evening American; John G. Allen, publisher of the Boston Herald; and John Kenney, publisher of the Boston Globe.

Levanthal, 47, is a native of Lithuania. He was elected president of the union in 1928.

B. & M. FIGHTS Crossing Law Change

Municipalities should be required to pay to per cent of the cost of eliminating railroad grade crossings in the opinion of Representative William E. Russell of Winchester.

The law, enacted a year ago, gave the law was changed to give a fairer split-up of costs. Because of the way in different localities, he argued, it would be unfair to set a fixed sum.

GOODWIN BANS 3-Year Auto Plates

Proposed issue of automobile plates every three years instead of annually was condemned today as "impractical" by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles.

The proposal by a California bill that annual fees be collected as now, the state to be reduced in cost of plate manufacturing, distribution and clerical work.

Goodwin said that at the end of three years plates would be worn and unreadable; that the issue of color helps police apprehend law violators.

GARLAND URGES Review Court

"We should have less codding of criminals and more regard for protection of society and taxpayers."

So Attorney Francis P. Garland, representing the Boston Bar Association, told the legislative committee on judiciary today, urging a bill to establish a special court to review sentences and avoid double trials in swiftest manner.

Attorney James M. Smith said appeals from lower courts are often taken in hope state witnesses make before a case again comes to trial.

TRAIN DEATH

New Bedford, Feb. 25.—A short cut to a factory where he was employed, brought death today to John J. Adamowski, 65, the father of four children.

Adamowski's body was found beside the tracks in the Taylor Mill freight yard, where he had been struck by a train.

Bishop at 32

New York, Feb. 25 (INR).—The Most Rev. Raymond A. Kruger, T. D., became the youngest Roman Catholic bishop in the world today when, at the age of 32, he was elevated to the episcopacy in an unusual ceremony in the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help in Brooklyn.

IDAHO LEAVES

The U. S. battleship Idaho, recently modernized, left the South Boston drydock today for Rockland, Me., for trial runs.

Carrying a crew of 1200 officers and sailors, the Idaho is in command of Captain T. A. Todd. The battleship was in drydock for a week.

Dies in Vault

London, Ont., Feb. 25 (INR).—Trapped by death in the marble mausoleum of the late Colonel John W. Little, ex-mayor of London, the body of Arthur Jackson, 24, was found in the vault today, the skull crushed. Police believe he was killed by an 18-foot fall in the floor.

HELD IN THEFT

Westboro, Feb. 25.—Accused of stealing a secret formula, said to be valued between $20,000 and $100,000, George L. Bowles, of Newburg, N. J., was arraigned in district court here today as a fugitive from justice.

He was held in $2000 bail on a continuance.

DRIVE Enters Last WEEK

This will be the last week of the Emergency Campaign of 1935, and approximately $1,200,000 is still lacking from the four million needed to support the 97 private charities enrolled in the drive.

The amount, $2,760,609.16, so far contributed has come from less than one-half of one percent of the total number of people in and around Greater Boston whose help the private agencies depended upon.

As a last effort to inspire canvassers to a burst of effort, an Zero Hour dinner will be given in Symphony Hall tonight. Penny Hart, the novelist, Ruth Russell, the violinist, and many other notables will be among the entertainers.

Although more than 1000 reservations have already been made, tickets for the public may be obtained at any bookstore, at the campaign headquarters, or at the Symphony Hall.

Tells Alyce Not to Worry

Pauline Lewis, five-year-old Beverly girl, tells Alyce Jane McHenry that an inverted stomach is nothing to get discouraged about. Pauline, operated upon four years ago by Dr. Philemon Truesdale, the doctor who is going to attempt to cure Alyce, today is as well and strong as any other child.

ALYCE To Be Girl SCOUT

Fall River, Feb. 25.—Dr. Philemon Truesdale, who will try to readjust Alyce Jane McHenry's up-side-down stomach, will be here Thursday. His steamship, Calameres, from the West Indies, will dock in New York Wednesday.

Meanwhile Alyce Jane, the 10-year-old Onahia, Neb. patient, is getting all ready for "when she's well again." She is studying to be a Girl Scout.

The operation which will be performed the latter part of the week is one of the most delicate tasks surgeons encounter. Her stomach, which has become inverted, must be righted, her heart brought over from the right side to the left and a left lung restored.

Third Transfusion

George McGinnis, 26, of the South End, a fireman, underwent his third blood transfusion within a week at City Hospital.

FIRE SWEEPS Greenfield Station

Greenfield, Feb. 25 (AP).—Fire swept the Boston & Maine Railroad station at Greenfield today with a loss estimated at $25,000. Flames damaged several district railroad offices on the second floor, part of the roof collapsed and a restaurant on the first floor was damaged. Train service was not disrupted.

TRIP TO HEAD Settlements Bank

Basel, Switzerland, Feb. 25.—Banking circles learned that Dr. Leonardus Jacobus A. Trip, president of the Bank of Netherland, has agreed to accept the presidency of the Bank of International Settlements in London, France, who is returning to the United States in May.

TUNNEL LAND Report Demanded

The finance commission stifled and disguised facts relative to land takings for the East Boston tunnel in its report, according to the Real Estate Owners and Tenants League.

At a meeting in Tremont Temple the organization called upon the commission to make public at once the complete report on this and on the Prado development and the R. I. Dolan case.

Shopping with Priscilla Price

Extra! Extra! Exciting News From the "Undie" World!

All about Filene's new "Undie Shop" on the street floor. If you're a clever shopper you'll find there are some really exciting "undie" values. Exquisite gowns and slips of all silk materials—some marked at our low price, $1.99. The slips are four inches fuller than ordinary slips—fitting the hips and 44 inches long. The shadow pattern is lower at hem edge which makes it so much easier to launder. Some are tailored—some trimmed with lace—there's all beautifully finished—have rolled hems—size up to 42. You'll adore the Gowns—they're so dainty! I particularly liked one with forgetting but you may like the lace trimmed styles better. There are four styles to choose from—all long and roomy. They are styled like dresses—sizes from 32 to 42. I warn you, if you go in to look—you won't be able to resist buying. You'll find these "undie" values in Filene's new Underwear Section, street floor.

Dearest Anne! With the shop windows all dressed up for Spring, in the most exciting Spring Fashions you and I have seen for years—it takes a stronger will than mine not to wish for a million or two to spend on beautifying my laded winter wardrobe—and, incidentally, myself! Now for some exciting news from my favorite shopping haunts—

America pays tribute to its first free public school

1635 • 1935

ON APRIL 23, 1635, Boston Public Latin School was founded. For any institution to serve its community continuously for three hundred years is noteworthy. Yet to appreciate the unique and conspicuous service of America's first free public school one need only glance through the roll of its graduates.

Cotton Mather, Benjamin Franklin, Samuel Adams, John Hancock, James Bowdoin, first president of this bank, Charles Bulfinch, Phillips Brooks, Charles W. Eliot, are but a few.

In three hundred years its standards of scholarship have never faltered. What better proof than the fact that forty Latin School boys entered Harvard's latest Freshmen class with honors!

ABOVE: The first schoolhouse, as such, erected in America in 1635, on School Street. BELOW: Present building of Boston Public Latin School on Avenue Louis Pasteur.

The FIRST NATIONAL BANK of BOSTON

1784 • 1935

This bank acknowledges the immeasurable contribution of the Boston Public Latin School to the progress of education and extends neighborly best wishes for a successful Centenary.

Mrs. Charles Harding of Dedham
in Miami Bridge Tournament

By BETTY ALDEN

TO MANY PEOPLE, a social editor is like a little bird of gay plumage who flits about from one party to another and then chirps the story to the world. . . . But if we really were such birds we would have long since flown South, bringing back social tidings from the Southlands only with the return of the first robin. . . .

Instead we are more like the sturdy little sparrows and chickadees who go in for winter sports and have a jolly time flitting about the winter streets and peering through frosty window panes to pick up bits of fireside chatter. . . .

News from the tropics seldom ruffles our feathers, even when we hear that an exhilarating ocean voyage, instead of the prosaic train or automobile route, will speed one of Boston's most distinguished citizens to Florida. . . . none other than the president of the Harvard Club, Nathaniel Ayer. . . .

Or that Mrs. Charles Harding of Dedham has added another activity to her busy social program at Palm Beach where she is occupying her spacious villa. . . . Since her sister, Mrs. Arthur Pike, has come home to Dedham, after her lengthy visit at Mrs. Harding's villa, the latter has occupied her attention with the arrangements for the big bridge tournament at the Everglades Club this week. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Keller of Brimmer street are cruising in Florida waters and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw is finding the diversions offered at Florida's popular resorts more engaging at this season than the Friday afternoon Symphony concerts or the Morning Musicales. . . .

Music Festival

THOSE WHO ATTENDED the International Music Festival at Symphony Hall yesterday afternoon had actual proof of the doctrine which many pacifists are proposing for the way to better understanding among the nations, the doctrine that music is the international language. . . . and many were surprised and delighted to realize that each national group right here in Boston is represented by its own chartered society which since the folk songs of its native land and selections from the musical culture of its people. . . .

Eight of these choruses were presented yesterday in a diversified program, made even more interesting by the presence of judges in the audience to choose the best among them. . . . Peasant costumes of their native lands were worn by the girls who competed, but except in the case of the Byzantine Greek chorus, the men were not in costume. . . .

As is to be expected, all nationalities were represented in the audience as well as on the platform. . . . A long list of Beacon Hill sponsors added distinction to the event, however, and a great many prominent music lovers turned out for the interesting and cultural program. . . .

Mrs. J. Philip Lane Attends

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH LEE and Mrs. David J. Evans were noted enjoying the songs from the front rows. . . . Miss Lucy Lowell, who is deeply interested in the work of these choral groups, and the Misses Frances and Harriet Curtis attended. . . . Thomas and Mark Woodbury, youthful music lovers, were with their mother, Mrs. Margaret Lee Woodbury, daughter of Mr. Joseph Lee. . . .

Mr. Robert Chase, whose painting of James Otis was unveiled at the Bostonian Society meeting last week, was an appreciative listener, as was Mr. W. Duncan Russell. . . .

The foreign songs were very familiar to Mrs. J. Philip Lane of Weston, who under her maiden name, Ellen Cook, is well known as a professional singer of folk songs. . . .

Others there were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Hill with several of their young grandchildren, Mrs. Henry Scott, Miss Emily McKibben, Mrs. Alfred C. Redfield, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Rogers of Milton, Mrs. Charles F. Eaton, who seldom misses an important musical event, Miss Eleanor Adams and Mr. Stephen Cabot. . . .

Morning of Diversion Planned
BOSTONIANS WHO ARE ANTICIPATING a trip to the Orient this summer will find unusual interest in the program of dream pictures of Imperial China and Manchukuo which Branson De Cou will present at the first Morning of Diversion sponsored by Mrs. William Dana Orcutt. . . .

This interesting program has been planned for Thursday morning at the Statler Hotel. . . . Mrs. Orcutt's assistants at the door will be Mrs. Dunbar Lockwood, Mrs. George U. Baylies, Mrs. Charles Allen Porter, Mrs. Frank A. Pemberton. . . .

After you have passed these ladies you will be directed to your seat by one of the attractive usherettes. . . . Mrs. Marshall Fabry, Jr., Jane McGraw, Faith Barney, Margaret Lang, Priscilla Cornish, Martha Bird, Molly Bowditch and Elise Russell. . . .

Miss Mary Lothrop, Miss Mary E. Wil-

Molly Bowditch

Yam and Miss Elizabeth Ely presided at the tea and coffee urns this afternoon at the open house at Mrs. Algonquin Cook-ing's Beacon street residence. . . . this was one of the last of the Campaign Snack parties at which guests will be entertaining with a two-act skit entitled "February and June". . . .

Miss Elizabeth Putnam was co-hostess with Mrs. C. M.

Idge and assisting them were Mrs. H. Harris F. Fluke, Mrs. Edward C. Cabot and Mrs. Albert H. Robert, 2d.

Do You Dread CERTAIN THINGS?

THE TELEPHONE
PROTECTS YOU
AGAINST THEM

If you were to avoid the tramping of errands, the telephone takes you there and back in a jiffy.

If you would escape dreary and cold weather, let the telephone carry your message and run your errands, while you stay at home, dry and warm.

If you are fagged out from a ceaseless round of household duties, why go out and increase your weariness? Let the telephone do your running around.

Likewise, if you balk at bad-weather driving, or if you want to save gas and time, there is your telephone, ready at hand for just such occasions.

People who do their own work have little enough time for themselves, and they particularly need and enjoy a tireless timesaver. Costing as little as two nickels a day, a trifle more or less, the telephone quickly earns its way in service and savings.

If you haven't a telephone, get in touch with your local telephone business office.

SOVIET FARM CAMPS STOCKED WITH FORCED LABOR

The end came slowly to these two peasant women as famine tore down the strength which comes from generations of toiling with the soil. Death caught up as they wandered, glassy-eyed, aimlessly along the road they knew not whither. These two Kulaks (former land owners), people whom the Bolsheviks have no use for as they strive towards an impossible ideal—an ideal all but hidden in their leaders' lust for power. Perhaps, as Bismarck once said: "They would have died anyway, some years hence, without accomplishing anything in particular." No room for the plain every-day worker who will not accept Communism.

HUNGER CRAZED SOVIETS JAILED

raunlet?" "No, I want to die and be with my mother."

I walked further from Kiev towards the southwest, and met a little boy carrying a bucket. He stated that his father had been sent away to Siberia for refusing to join a Collective Farm, that his mother had died two months ago from hunger, and that he had walked many miles about the country since her death, as he was afraid to sleep in the hut alone.

He said that he did not have any relatives he could go to. I asked him why he carried the bucket, and he told me he had been terribly thirsty these last two days, and carried drinking water in the bucket. His lips were swollen and he appeared to have a high fever.

I passed many men, women and homeless waifs, but the outstanding figure was a tall man, obviously very ill, in rags and tatters.

Highly Educated

He had class written all over him in spite of his disreputable appearance. He was so hoarse he could hardly speak.

He was highly educated. He stated that he had attended Oxford, had been a large landowner near Zaporoch, on the Dnieper River, in pre-war days, and had suffered intensely at the hands of the Bolsheviks.

He stated that they had exiled him to Siberia in 1930.

He had walked most of the 4,000 miles back to his home in Zaporoch, to find his wife and child had been turned out of their huts and that no one knew of their whereabouts.

His one obsession was to find his wife.

At a deserted-looking hut I found a little boy in tears, wearing a man's heavy coat.

He stated that his father had been sent to a labor concentration camp early in the Spring, and that his mother had gone into Kiev to try to get food for them two days ago.

She had not returned. She was so weak, he stated, when she left that she could hardly walk, and he was afraid she had died on the way.

There was not a crumb of bread in the house, and this boy had not eaten in five days.

One of the noticeable things about this trip was the absolute lack of animal life. In villages that were formerly overrun with dogs, hardly one was to be seen, and when visible it was usually closely guarded.

There is a law in this district which provides a penalty of three years imprisonment for eating dogs.

One family of mother and child that I visited had recently lost the father. Trying to keep his little family from starving, he had stolen a dog in the village, killed it, and was apprehended by the GPU while cooking it. He was sentenced to three years imprisonment.

Stock Camps

Even these stiff sentences do not deter these starving peasants from the practice.

The severity of the sentences for most trivial offenses is appalling—apparently the SOVIET USES THIS MEANS TO STOCK

THE CONCENTRATION LABOR CAMPS.

For eating seed wheat in the process of a spring planting on a Collective Farm a peasant was tried and sentenced to five years hard labor on a Forced Labor Farm.

For having a few grains of wheat in his pockets after the day's work, another was sentenced to three years' hard labor.

These so-called trials, I was told, are the famous "Private Trials" of the GPU. The peasant is led before a judge who hears the evidence and passes sentence without any argument or other unnecessary delay.

If the peasant working on a Forced Labor Farm becomes ill, he may stay away from work and receives one-half of a pound of bread a day, provided he can obtain a certificate from the Bolshevik Doctor that the illness is NOT THE RESULT OF HUNGER. These certificates are very hard to get.

In the middle of the afternoon, when I estimated that I had walked fifteen miles from Kiev, I came upon the bodies of two peasant women and a tiny baby.

The mother had died first, her arms were still folded in the act of holding her child. The baby had crawled off a few inches from the mother's arms and perished.

In the course of the afternoon, I counted seven more bodies—all dead from starvation. Two little boys about eight years old, and one little girl of ten years or thereabouts.

Camera Worry

My camera was beginning to be a great source of worry to me. I was convinced that if the Bolsheviks caught up with these photographs there would be another obituary to add to the set—my own—but I went on.

I came upon three peasants who had made a rough camp near the highway. One was ill with fever, he stated, although it was probably some related cause to hunger.

I asked those peasants why they did not go to the Red Cross in Kiev for medical attention. They replied in tones that did not invite argument, that the Bolshevik Red Cross was run for the good of the Bolsheviks, and that NO INDEPENDENT PEASANT COULD GET RELIEF THERE.

One of these peasants had been in Moscow in the early spring, and had been picked up by the GPU, along with 10 thousand others in a cleanup of unemployment.

They were to be shipped to Siberia, but he stated that he was in one of the last groups to be loaded and that there was not enough room on the train, so that he and 100 others were set free.

At a dilapidated hut by the highway, I found a woman and three children. There was a smell of pastry cooking, and the

Just a water boy, we first thought. But no. It was one of the thousands of homeless Russian lads who wander throughout the Soviet. This lad, however, was suffering from a fever. For days his lips burned, he said and he found relief only by carrying a bucket of water along with him as he went searching day after day, for scraps of food to carry his withered body along.

BUTLER Hits Fascist "PLOT" PROBE

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Feb. 25.—General Smootley D. Butler says the House committee on un-American activities suppressed testimony in which he stated Gerald P. McGuire, Wall Street agent, was inferring (Butler) was "in" with President Roosevelt.

The ex-marine commander, in a speech here, asserted that Mr. McGuire, mentioned by Butler in an alleged Fascist plot against the government, could "fool" future events and that he was "on the inside."

"I've been what McGuire told me," Butler said, referring to a conversation last August, "and I told the committee."

"We are in with him," McGuire meant the President of the United States—see me as with him all the time. We know what is going to happen."

"And that testimony was suppressed," he said.

RUSSIA Seen in Mexican CHURCH WAR

By Universal Service.

Philadelphia, Feb. 25.—Dean Cardinal Dougherty charged the Soviet government with plotting against the Catholic Church in Mexico.

Addressing a crowd of 30,000 in Convention Hall he declared that "conditions" in Mexico are as bad, if not worse, than those in Soviet Russia.

The head of the Philadelphia archdiocese said reports of the Third International, paid for by Russia, are exciting and encouraging Mexico along the path of atheism and communism.

So far the Russian government has sent 15 million dollars to Mexican officials to further the campaign against churches and the moral order, he said. And he added that only three million dollars of that money has been accounted for.

Wife, Child Gone—He Searches On

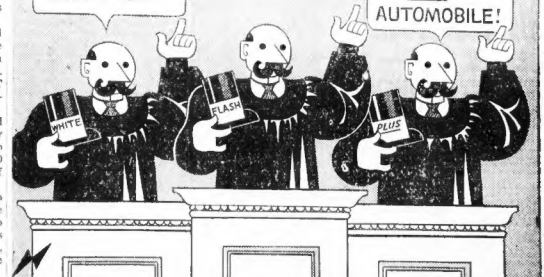

Hope shines in his eyes despite his disreputable appearance. Education is in his manner despite his hoarse voice. Once a student at Oxford, later an exile in Siberia's wastes, he trudged 4000 miles back to his home in Zaporoch, only to find his wife and child turned out of their huts. His one obsession is to find his family.

FIVE Steamers in DANGER

GALES HAMPER SHIPPING

Five steamers were in distress today, disabled in the path of a severe gale which has disrupted shipping from the Mediterranean to the New England coast.

Two two-masted packets which cleared New England ports last November have not been heard from since their departure.

But, another two-masted, the Trenton, which left four days behind the other two sailing craft, arrived safely in Cape Verde after nearly four months of heavy seas. The ship which arrived safely in the property of Joseph Viers, of Harrison avenue, Roxbury.

The other two, the John R. Man- ta and the Wm. W. Wainwright, with 45 persons aboard, including women and children, are believed lost. They also cleared for the Cape Verde Islands.

U. S. Ship in Peril

The United States shipping board freighter Oakman, sailing from Mobile, Ala., was reported today in midocean, 700 miles northwest of the Azores, her rudder gone, and a heavy sea pounding her.

The S. S. City of Newport is standing by. The British ship Ottinge, which wireless an urgent request for help when a low-line by which a tug was bringing her to port, parted, is the same vessel which was in distress a week ago. A Greek steamer, believed to be the Delphi, is at the mercy of the high seas in the Bay of Biscay, off the coast of Spain, with disabled engines.

SOS Flashed

Nearby is the crippled British ship Hillcroft.

The Italian steamer Spello sent an SOS from the middle of the Mediterranean.

Liners and freighters were reported rushing to the vicinity of all distressed vessels except the Oakman, which is being closely watched by the Newport News. Delayed liners arriving at American ports reported gales in their crossing, most of the captains admitting that they had seldom seen more dangerous weather.

JAPAN FREES

U. S. Boat as "Spy"

Tokio, Feb. 25 (AP)—The captain and crew of the American tanker Elizabeth Kellogg were absolved today of suspicion of spying on Japan's fortifications in Tokio harbor.

The vessel was floated last night from the mud spit on which it grounded. Authorities announced soon afterward their investigation was closed and the tanker was free to depart.

Captain N. T. Henderson, master of the craft, was quoted by police as saying the ship strayed from its channel while he was below decks celebrating Washington's Birthday.

EASTMAN BACKS

Rail Ship Control

Washington, Feb. 25 (INS)—New Haven railroad ownership of water carriers off the New England seaboard serves the public interest better than would separate ownership of the two systems, Federal Transportation Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman told the Senate Interstate Commerce committee today.

Appearing in support of Administration legislation for federal regulation of motor, air and water carriers as well as railroads, Eastman said the railroad was allowed to retain control of the water carriers because shippers insist on it.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel your stomach and the world looks pink, don't realize a lot of salts, minerals, and active energy are working and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of vitality.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get the acids in your liver. It should pour out the pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your liver is clogged and your blood is full of poisons. You have a thick, sticky bile and your blood is full of acids and poisons. Your head aches and you feel gloom and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, powerful, gentle, purifying, stimulating, health-giving ingredients, and when it comes to making the bile flow, they are the best. Don't let the name "Carter's" fool you. It's not a name, it's a fact. Little Liver Pills on the red label. Repeat a substantial, strengthening, and healthy.

Lady M'Neal In N. Y., May Claim Son

By International News Service
New York, Feb. 25.—The future of eight-year-old Carroll Wainwright was problematical today after arrival from Bermuda of his mother, Lady Hector MacNeal, the former Edith Gould, ex-wife of Carroll Livingston Wainwright.

Young Carroll last December ran away from his Bermuda home to join his grandmother, Mrs. Carl Wolff, of Park avenue.

Lady MacNeal, victim of rheumatism, arrived on the liner Queen of Bermuda with a nurse and was removed in an ambulance to Hotel Lombardy.

Her husband, Sir Hector MacNeal, shipping official, remained in Bermuda.

When the boy arrived here his grandmother said: "I hope this will not be another Gloria Vanderbilt-Whitney affair. I am glad Carroll ran away. I shall see he doesn't go back."

Mrs. Wolff was surprised to learn of the arrival of Lady MacNeal and said:

"She has not written to inquire about the boy. He is with his father in the country."

BALMY Today, Colder TOMORROW

Boston may need its umbrella tomorrow, perhaps even its snow shoes, but today it revels in balmy, spring-like sunshine.

By 1 p. m. the temperature had climbed up to 59 degrees and it was going higher. To break the record it had 15 notches to go. The all-time high for February 25—65 degrees—was set in 1920.

Warm as it was today, it was not even a record for this year. Remember 10 days ago? It was 52 then, and on January 9 it was 56. The rain which Boston will receive tonight and tomorrow comes from the northern Ohio Valley.

The snow comes from the northern Lake Michigan region. Today's mildness will give way in tomorrow's cold; the weatherman predicted. By tomorrow night both the rain and snow will have cleared off; the mercury will have dropped considerably from its 40 point mark today.

QUINCY DEATH Ruled Suicide

William V. Stringer, 34, found fatally shot in the front hall of his home on Washington street, Quincy Point, was declared a suicide. The gun from which the fatal bullet was fired was found in his car, parked in the street.

After examining the body, Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones said that Stringer had shot himself and walked up the front steps into his home before he collapsed.

Father Is Jailed for Beating 2

The story of how two children, one nine and the other seven, were stripped of their clothing and beaten with a thick leather strap until they were black and blue, was revealed before Judge William F. Bacon in Newton court today.

The father, John W. Farwell, of Concord street, Newton Lower Falls, was sentenced to 30 days in the house of correction after he admitted beating the children "because they stole a loaf of bread."

The children, Elaine and William, said they stole the bread because they didn't have enough to eat at home.

The children were taken back to their home while Franklin T. Waite of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children investigated.

PRIZE STUDENT New Deal Booster

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 25 (AP)—Henry Allison Page, 21, 21-year-old winner of the highest undergraduate award at Princeton University, believes the New Deal policies should be pushed further than the administration has advanced them up to this point.

"The New Dealers lack the courage of their convictions," the winner of the coveted M. Taylor Pyne honor prize and a Rhodes scholar-elect said today, "and he believes the government should control the manufacture of munitions and all basic industries."

CONGRESS Warned on RELIEF BILL

By Associated Press
Washington, Feb. 25.—A mobilization in behalf of work relief that will make the house army look like a Boy Scout parade in comparison was forecast in one quarter today.

"If it becomes necessary to secure passage of the administration's $4,880,000,000 bill."

"Telling 3,500,000 workers they United States conference of mayors made the forecast in a formal statement as Senate leaders marked time on the Roosevelt work relief program with its unwieldy McCarran prevailing wage amendment."

Itters said: "Telling 3,500,000 workers they can not work, regardless of the reason, is to foment social unrest which will be unmanageable."

"When it is considered that three and a half million workers represent close to 15 million dependent family members now on Federal relief, this congressional sentence is more severe and serious than any action taken by any government in the history of the world."

Doris Duke Tax Plea

Washington, Feb. 25 (AP)—The former Doris Duke, reputedly the world's richest girl, today carried a fight against an additional $422 income tax assessment for 1932 to the Board of Tax Appeals. Petition brought in by her guardian last week appealed claims totaling $4,601 for that year.

MELLON In Person Rules HUGE FORTUNE

By Associated Press
Pittsburgh, Feb. 25.—Andrew W. Mellon personally shapes the policies and guides the destinies of the great Mellon fortune, the banker's secretary, Howard M. Johnson, told the Board of Tax Appeals today.

Called as a witness for the fourth day at Mellon's $3,000,000 income tax inquiry, the gray-haired former bookkeeper, who has drawn up the financier's income tax returns for 20 years, was asked by Government Counsel Robert H. Jackson if Mellon always was in close touch with his financial situation, and the secretary said:

"He always was actually in charge, with the qualification that while he was in Washington he did not have the same close touch."

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 25 (INS)—Residents of Hammond and Rockport, Ont., who rubbed their eyes at the sight of "red snow" yesterday, had a solution to the mystery today.

Weathermen attributed the phenomenon to simultaneous occurrence of a snow and dust storm. The latter struck from the west.

CODE WAGES Paid on Snow Jobs

NRA code wage provisions were strictly complied with by all contractors who removed snow from Boston streets.

Such was the substance of a report filed today with City Clerk Wilfred Doyle by John J. McDonough, NRA compliance officer here.

In an investigation asked by the city council, he said that he found that in every case the fifteen-cent-an-hour rate, provided by the Laborers' code, was paid.

HARVARD

IS CONTENDER FOR TITLE, AS IS YALE

By Walter Kiley

Twenty-eight colleges swing into I. C. 4-A. competition at New York next Saturday night as the varsity athletes push their more publicized club rivals into the temporary background.

Michigan, the favorite, winning last year's title at a time when it was a favorite in the football world, is expected to lead the pack.

Harvard, Yale, and Princeton are also expected to be in the running. The contest is expected to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The meet will be held at the Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday night, Feb. 24. The contest is expected to be one of the most exciting of the season.

The meet will be held at the Madison Square Garden, New York, on Saturday night, Feb. 24. The contest is expected to be one of the most exciting of the season.

Clash at Arena Tomorrow

Boston University and Boston College will battle again at the Boston Arena tomorrow to settle many questions which arose out of the last fight.

The fight was a close one, with both teams showing their best. The result was a draw, but the questions remain.

RAJAH Picks Indians FOR FLAG

SAYS RUTH WILL RETURN DEANS MUST SHOW THEY CAN TAKE IT

By Associated Press

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 23.—The Dean brothers, Dixie and Duff, are in the opinion of Rogers Hornsby, "great fellows and great ball players, but they've got to prove that they can take it this year."

Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Browns, passed through here today en route from the baseball school at Hot Springs, Ark., to the Browns' training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

"The boys are young," he said, "and they've got to be in the lineup last year. If they can stand it they are in for another good year. But you never know in this game—you're a hero today and a hum tomorrow."

Hornsby said he believes Cleveland will win the American League pennant and that Babe Ruth will be back in a Yankee uniform.

"That guy's really meek and humble," he said, "but he still packs a punch, and that punch still packs 'em in the Yankee Stadium."

Hornsby believes Cleveland will win the pennant because they've "punch and defense power," and because "they are youngsters and can hustle," but "with a lot of good team play."

The Browns he said will be better than last year. He is hoping to get Fred Walker and Red Rolfe from the Yankees and "if he can get Fred Walker, he'll be home of getting Walker, because he's the star of major baseball, Hornsby doesn't expect to play unless he finds his hitting redoubt."

Anger Over Boost in Food Prices

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL, Editor of Authority

A still but distinct murmur which promises soon to swell into an angry chorus is discernible in the sporadic housewife protests at the skyrocketing of meat, poultry, butter and other food prices.

The murmur is not yet a roar, but it is a murmur, and it is a murmur which promises soon to swell into an angry chorus.

After seasoning, roast in moderate oven, about 20 minutes per pound. Cornish plaster with cream and butter. Serve with hot gravy from pan drippings, seasoned with sage.

Put a fresh ham in roasting pan, sprinkle with flour and salt and pepper. Bake in slow oven, 20 minutes per pound. Baste often, turning from side to side frequently. Increase heat to brown the ham.

Roast entire with salt. Place in shallow pan. Roast in moderate oven, about 20 minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes and yellow liquid.

Brown all over in hot butter. Season with salt and pepper. Cover with boiling water. Simmer for one hour. Add parsnips, potatoes, carrots and onions, and cook until vegetables are done.

Sprinkle with flour and seasonings. Roast in moderate oven, until tender, about 20 minutes to the pound. If desired garnish hot with wine sauce, sprinkle with sugar and bake in grape juice until liquid is absorbed.

'ADVICE on LOVE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX and NELL' BRINKLEY

Love And Luck Are No Relation

EVEN the seething politics in Washington, in recent weeks, couldn't crowd off the first pages the elopement of a young heiress with the family chauffeur.

But what a chauffeur! Regular movie stuff, the story of this elopement paralleled to a T the plot of romance now running in one of the popular magazines.

Like the hero of the serial, the chauffeur who ran off with this Washington heiress was a football star in disguise. Needless to say, he is handsome and well-educated, and was the pet of the family before the elopement.

Still, Washington tea tables buzz and friends speculate on how long the marriage will last. It seems to me that people who ask such questions pay a very poor compliment to girls who make genuine love matches.

The fact that a girl has been born to wealth is no assurance that she lacks femininity or that she isn't human enough to fall in love with some charming young man who happens to be poor.

Who shouldn't a rich girl, as well as a poor one, mean what she says in the marriage ceremony when she promises to be faithful for richer or poorer, for better or worse, in sickness and in health?

Has it never occurred to us that there's a real advantage in adapting ourselves to new conditions? Look at the rich young men who enjoy sailing boats, sailing heavy sailboats, running about in oilskins and generally roughing it. They like camping, too, even when they eat the things they cook.

And who was it after the World War, who showed the greatest adaptability to changed conditions, a willingness to roll up their sleeves and undertake any kind of work? The women of the Russian nobility.

And in our own United States, who was it who kept things going in the bitter days of reconstruction in the South? Why, the women, of course. They saved their dear ones without a grimace. They taught the children. They cooked. And hardships never wore away their cheerfulness.

Money doesn't buy happiness, either in marriage or celibacy. Do you recall the lovely old lady whose millions were divided among dozens of charities and institutions a few weeks ago? From girlhood her love was lavished on a succession of noble dogs. Wouldn't it have been better if, in youth, she had eloped with someone?

There comes a time in a girl's life after she has been in society for three or four years, when she gets tired of gadding to parties night after night. She says herself the grim question: Why am I wasting my life chasing bubbles?

The Important Dress

By Nell Brinkley

THE wedding dress! The dress to look back upon. The dress to show one's child, handing it tenderly. The dress that goes over the heart that is no longer free. Maybe it's ivory; maybe it's purest white; maybe it's dark blue or gray cloth. Maybe it's humble or maybe not. Maybe it runs into three figures in father's books, or only two in YOUR OWN.

BRIDGE

Changing in Mid-Hand

By MRS. CULBERTSON

The versatile defender is able to change his mind in the middle of a hand. All too often a player decides that a certain lead is too dangerous and abstains from making it even when it is obviously the last hope.

In today's hand the West player properly switched his line of defense in the nick of time.

South Dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

♠ AK 10
♥ 10 9 8 5
♦ 10 9 4 3
♣ 8 7 3

♠ 14 2
♥ 5
♦ Q 7 2
♣ A J 9 5

The bidding:
South West North East
3 ♣ (1) Pass 5 ♣ (2) Pass
Pass

(1) A good pre-emptive bid.
(2) A questionable raise since North's hand is already mortgaged for two or three tricks.
West opened his top spade since it seemed highly dangerous to open any of the suits headed by the Ace. Dummy took the first trick and returned a trump. West winning with the Ace.

Once again, West had a problem. There was little to recommend the diamond lead and the club might permit declarer to win an otherwise unmakeable King.

Therefore another spade was led, declarer winning with the Queen. A round of trumps was followed by the Jack of diamonds. West stepped right up with the Ace of diamonds and properly decided to throw caution to the winds.

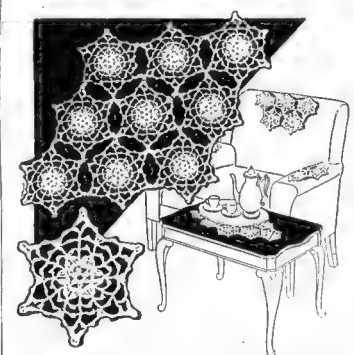

Declarer was marked with six trump winners and three spades. The only chance of preventing the King of diamonds from contributing a tenth trick was to cash two club tricks immediately. West therefore led the Ace of clubs followed by a small club, and defeated the contract.

Of course this could have been done at any point, but West, a careful defender, made the dangerous play only when no other line of defense remained.

PEANUT BUTTER

From Martha Lee's Monday Morning Broadcast Over Station WAAB

Peanut Butter, with its rich nutty flavor and smooth texture, is a surprisingly versatile food—one that can be used in a variety of ways to bring new interest to menus the year round.

Of course, we're all familiar with peanut butter spread in a thick, luscious layer on a generous slice of buttered bread, the favorite after-school snack of children. But that is the beginning of its possibilities.

Peanut butter has become increasingly popular of late as a nutritious addition to meatless meals. It offers such pleasant and well-balanced variety in a protein when we are all seeking new ways to prepare old standards.

PEANUT PUDDING
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons honey
3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons peanut butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar

Scald milk. Combine remaining ingredients and add to scalded milk. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Place in double boiler or in a pan over hot water and cook 15 minutes. Pour into molds, chill and serve with cream or whipped cream.

PEANUT BUTTER RABBIT (Especially good for children)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup milk
4 tablespoons peanut butter.
1/2 teaspoon salt

Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Add milk, peanut butter and salt and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve on crackers or toast. Garnish with paprika. Serve 6 to 8.

CHAPTER 277

I FOUND myself sitting forward in my chair with nerves and muscles as taut as the traditional fiddle strings when Lillian asked Hugh to "dish us the real dope on what's doing."

But despite my confidence in Hugh's judgment, backed by his sense of reserve, I asked him to "dish us the real dope on what's doing."

THE LOCK BOX
Lillian asked Hugh to "dish us the real dope on what's doing."

A GOOD MEMORY

Hugh turned eyes that were so often turned to Lillian on me and said: "I don't know what you mean."

"MENACE ON FLOATING ISLE"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

By golly, boys and girls, anyone who ever tells me that Adventure favors only the male sex is a blamed—well, he's a prevaricator and I can prove it. Why, doggone it, the so-called weaker sex have been sending me letters that make the hair stand right up on their scared heads of mine. And I wouldn't be a bit surprised if one of the gals did win that big hundred dollar prize check this month. That don't quote me.

Today's 10 smackerd board goes to a little lady by the name of Lorraine Clarke, who will receive her check at 5311 Whitehall Avenue, Elmhurst, N. Y.

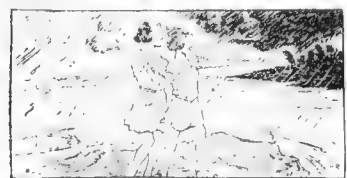

Lorraine is a very nice girl, and I have no doubt that she will make a very good wife. She is a very nice girl, and I have no doubt that she will make a very good wife.

Very truly yours, FLOYD GIBBONS

Their island was so near the shore they heard and saw a bolt of lightning strike a tree on land and fear it to pieces as though it had been paper. Huge waves, too, sprang up suddenly and pounded their fearless islet on powerfully that Lorraine felt it shudder. That was enough for the girls. They dropped all ideas of fishing and scampered through the rearing rain to their boat. But when they reached the place where they had left the Gem they stopped in horror.

THE BOAT WAS GONE!

The girls couldn't even see the boat in the lake. The storm rumbled on furiously. The sea was a churning Lorraine thought it would be impossible to find the boat in the water. The island was so near the shore they heard and saw a bolt of lightning strike a tree on land and fear it to pieces as though it had been paper. Huge waves, too, sprang up suddenly and pounded their fearless islet on powerfully that Lorraine felt it shudder. That was enough for the girls. They dropped all ideas of fishing and scampered through the rearing rain to their boat. But when they reached the place where they had left the Gem they stopped in horror.

At last, Lorraine's eyes opened wide in amazement. Then a terrible fear came over her as she saw the wreckage of the Gem and pointed to the place on land where the boat had been.

Their island was moving into the lake!

Lorraine says she and Mary screamed as loud as they could but the storm was making an awful noise that she was sure no one could hear them. Once they heard a motor boat passing. They screamed louder, but the boat went on.

The girls stood on the shore, and as their voices reached the boat, it came back. Lorraine and Mary saw the boat and ran to it. They knew they were being carried out to the open sea. Lake Superior. They prayed that the storm would abate. It was their only chance.

Once more, Lorraine says she heard a motor boat and screamed with all their might. The storm seemed to quiet for a few seconds. Then the sound of the motor stopped. In that few seconds of silence the girls sent up a scream as Lorraine says could have been heard in Chicago. The motor started toward them.

The boat appeared, a rope was thrown to them, they were pulled aboard and after a little cry were soon safe in their mother's arms.

What the girls had thought was an island was just a mass of floating bog, and that's why Lorraine and Mary don't like "Floating Island" for dessert. Another thriller tomorrow.

$1000 EVERY DAY and $1000 EVERY MONTH is what Floyd Gibbons will pay American readers to prove that more thrilling and interesting THRILL adventures happen in YOUR life and in the lives of your friends than anything fiction writers can invent. And Floyd will prove it every day on this page. The famous war correspondent's own life is filled with adventure. He was wounded in "No Man's Land," tormented in mid-Atlantic and rode with Death in the Sahara, but he wants to write YOU a story now. Send it in to him today. There are no conditions. Everyone is eligible.
